RAPID FIRE

Someone off-camera fires prompts. 1-3 word answers, zero elaboration. 15-30s. Speed is the format.

1. First thing you notice

In a building / a tenant / a property manager / a landlord / a young broker / a business owner / a bad deal / a market that's turning / someone who'll make it / someone who won't

2. Overrated or underrated

Cap rates / curb appeal / off-market deals / LoopNet / personal guarantees / networking events / cold calling / an MBA / location / square footage

3. One word: property types

Office / retail / industrial / multifamily / self-storage / hotels / land / restaurants / medical office

4. Deal breaker or not

Personal guarantee / no parking / one tenant is half the income / deferred maintenance / month-to-month leases / seller won't share the rent roll / wrong side of the street

5. Yes or no, no explaining

Buy an office building today? / ever be a residential agent? / is Houston overbuilt? / should a tenant hire their own broker? / need a partner to start? / is the office apocalypse real? / buy a restaurant building?

6. Finish the sentence

A good broker always... / a bad landlord always... / the best tenants are... / vacancy usually means... / most owners don't realize... / every young broker should... / fastest way to lose a client is...

7. One word to describe

Your first year / your worst deal / your best client / the 2026 market / office real estate / your first office / starting a company

8. Who wins?

Cash flow or appreciation / location or price / great tenant or great building / speed or certainty / big firm or small firm / own or lease / Houston or Dallas

9. First question you ask

A new client / a tenant looking for space / an owner with a vacancy / a broker you might hire / someone who wants in / a vendor bidding

10. Rate it out of ten

Being your own boss / commission-only pay / working weekends / owning your office / cold calling / real estate school / your first apartment

GOOD / BAD / BEST

Three items, three verdicts, about 20 seconds. Fastest format on the board.
